PCCA Names Eddie Glover, P.D., Pharmacist of the Year

HOUSTON (October 15, 2009): Professional Compounding Centers of America (PCCA) has named Eddie Glover, P.D., of US Compounding in Conway, Ark., as its Dr. M. George Webber Compounding Pharmacist of the Year, an award which is presented annually to an independent pharmacist who has demonstrated service excellence to patients, healthcare providers and pharmacy colleagues. Compounding is the pharmacy method of preparing customized medications to meet each prescriber's and patient's unique needs. The late Dr. Webber, for whom the award is named, was a long-time professor with the University of Houston College of Pharmacy, and was instrumental in the formation of PCCA in 1981.

L. David Sparks, PCCA's president/CEO, presented the award to Glover on October 9, 2009, during a ceremony at the company's International Seminar, held in Houston. Glover "has contributed significant time and effort to ensure that compounding remains a viable and healthy profession, for now and for the future," Sparks declared. "Active in many organizations, he can be counted upon to visit his state representatives during IACP's Compounders on Capitol Hill. He's been a consistent contributor to the NCPA Foundation and currently serves as a State Pharmacy Association District President. Aware that future pharmacists are key to our profession's success, he helped to establish an endowed scholarship at the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences College of Pharmacy, and has served for several years as a preceptor there. US Compounding's daily motto is, 'Feel good again,' and he has helped to instill a contagious enthusiasm among his staff for helping patients do exactly that."

Glover graduated from the University of Oklahoma in 1975 with a Doctor of Pharmacy degree. He has worked in community pharmacy for 31 years, and presently owns pharmacies in Marshall, Clinton and Conway, Arkansas. He presently owns and operates Arkansas Home Medical; Marshall Medic; Harvest Foods; and US Compounding, which was formed to provide compounded pharmaceuticals and sterile compounded pharmaceuticals. US Compounding has received accreditation by the Pharmacy Compounding Accreditation Board™ (PCAB).

Glover was named PCCA's January 2006 Pharmacist of the Month, and served as an inaugural member of PCCA's Advisory Council, giving generously of his time and helping to shape the future for the company and its membership.

Serving compounding pharmacists since 1981, Houston, Texas-headquartered PCCA provides the fine chemicals, equipment, devices, Accreditation Council on Pharmacy Education (ACPE)-accredited training courses and seminars, and technical consulting assistance necessary to allow compounding pharmacists the ability to compound unique dosage forms according to the patient's individualized medication needs and the physician's prescription. PCCA currently has more than 3,600 pharmacist members throughout the United States, Canada and Australia.
